How good is your group travel insurance?

Your most valued asset is your staff. You need them to perform well when travelling on your behalf, with no worries about the insurance protection they have while away from home.

At Churchill, we can arrange comprehensive protection for most eventualities, whether your personnel are travelling by road, rail or air, in the UK or overseas.

The Lifeline Exec group travel insurance, underwritten by AIG Europe Ltd, is probably the most comprehensive protection for you and your employees available:

Unlike most travel insurance, there's no age limit and no exclusions for pre-existing conditions, providing you are fit to travel. Medical and rescue services cover is unlimited and extends to the provision of a dedicated case worker to ensure appropriate treatments are received.

Cancellation, curtailment and delay costs are included, even in the event of a natural catastrophe. In addition, an emergency message relay service to family and business associates will keep those who need to know informed.

Not only are belongings insured, with claims usually being agreed quickly and easily over the phone, there is also help with lost luggage, replacement of lost documents and emergency cash advances if required.

With free travel advice and a free concierge service for entertainment, dining and more, the policy is without compromise, yet without hefty premiums. These start at just £265.

And for company directors on a well earned break from the office with your family and even your nanny, this policy includes full holiday travel cover.
